

Eric C. Axford - Biography

Eric is vice-president, extraction operations with Suncor Energy in Fort McMurray.

Eric has held several prior roles within Suncor including vice-president, business services (Fort McMurray, Oil Sands), vice-president, strategic growth and business services (Toronto, Energy Marketing and Refining), director, commercial and reseller sales (Toronto, Energy Marketing and Refining), director, finance and planning (Calgary, Prospect Generation Services), director, new business ventures (Calgary, Natural Gas), director, corporate planning (Calgary) and manager, strategic planning (Fort McMurray, Oil Sands).

Prior to joining Suncor in 1996, Eric worked for the Alberta Department of Energy in Edmonton as executive assistant, policy coordination for the Minister of Energy and prior to that in oil sands, natural gas and renewable energy policy development in the Alberta Department of Energy. Prior to joining the Alberta Government in 1989, Eric held analytical roles with Ziff Energy Group and ICG Resources Ltd. based in Calgary.

Eric is an active supporter of the United Way and is a past chair of Suncor's internal Calgary campaign. Eric is also active volunteering for various charitable initiatives in the community and lending a hand in support of the educational and recreational activities of his daughter. He is also on the Board of Directors of the Northern Lights Health Region.

Eric has a Bachelors of Arts degree in economics from the University of Calgary (1987) and a Masters of Business Administration from the University of Alberta (1995). Eric is married and has one daughter. The family enjoys golf, skiing, swimming, boating and other recreation activities.